Ernest Henry Manner and Olive Magdalen Otway King

At Stratton St. Margaret Church on the 18th October, a pretty wedding was solemnised between Mr. Ernest Henry Manners, eldest son of Mr. H. H. Manners and the late Mrs. Manners of Ashbury, and Miss Olive Magdalene Otway King, of Stratton and Freeman of London. The Rev. S. Denton was the officiating clergyman. The bride looked charming in hand embroidered white silk and an old lace veil was lent by her cousin (Mrs. Child), and carried a shower bouquet of white heather, roses and chrysanthemums. The bridesmaid were the Mrs. Louie and Dorothy King (sister and niece) of the bride), and Blanche Child and Bessie Manners (cousins of the bride and sister of the bridegroom) and wore old rose and saxe voile trimmed with lemon and black velvet, with black lace hats to match, and wore brooches and pendants, the gifts of the bridegroom. Mr. Frank Norris (Upper Stratton) ably carried out the duties of "best man", while Mr. Will Norris, officiated at the organ, rendering the Bridal March, from "Lohengrin" (Wagner) at the opening, and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" at the conclusion of the service. The hymn sung was "Come, Holy Ghost, Our Souls Inspire". The happy couple left later in the day by motor for their home.
