Tytherton

TYTHERTON (or Tytherton Lucas or West Tytherton) is a chapelry and small village, 2 miles east-north-east from Chippenham station on the Great Western railway, in the North-Western division of the county, Chippenham parish, hundred, petty sessional division, union and county court district and in Chippenham rural deanery, North Wilts archdeaconry and Bristol diocese. The river Marden flows south of the parish, which is bounded on the west by the river Avon. The church of St Nicholas is a plain building of stone, consisting of chancel, nave of three bays, north aisle, and a turret containing one bell and has a curious and very fine Norman font: there are 70 sittings. The separate register dates only from 1850; previous to that date entries were made in the Chippenham register, which dates from 1578. The living is a rectory, annexed for more than six centuries to the vicarage of Chippenham, joint net yearly value £331, including 17 acres of glebe here, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Christ Church, Oxford, and held since 1905 by the Rev Maxwell Homfray Smith MA of St Peter's College, Cambridge, who is also rector of Hardenhuish, hon. Canon of Bristol and chaplain of Chippenham union, and resides at Chippenham. The land is divided among several holders. The soil is various; subsoil, gravel. Nearly the whole of the parish consists of pasture lands. The area of this chapelry is included in Chippenham.
